

a continuously changed, while rotating the drum at a constant speed, whereby the average density is gradually increased.